WORLD RENOWNED

DR. ANNA WOOTEN WAS BORN AND RAISED IN MOSCOW, Russia, a place, she says, where having a sense of style is expected. "Style is a very important part of the culture," she says. "It's all about the look, and it's all about the statement." It's clear that Dr. Wooten brought her sense of style with her to the States, and you can catch her rocking fashions from some of the most fashionable cultures all over the world, every day at Beleza Plastic Surgery in Wexford.

The purple pop of this Doncaster jacket is the perfect example of Dr. Wooten's fashion philosophy.

GO-TO ITEMS: "You can never have enough jackets, and of course, shoes," Wooten says. "You can have one pair of slacks and change it up all the time with different jackets and shoes."

WHERE SHE SHOPS: Nordstrom and Doncaster.

STYLE INSPIRATION: Dr. Wooten says her vacations all over the world are a major influence on her personal style. "I don't really have a favorite designer. I tend to like the style of certain cultures rather than just one designer. When I go on vacations, I love to spend an afternoon shopping and taking in the local fashion scene."

STYLISH SURGEON: "Style coincides with plastic surgery in that they both require a strong aesthetic sense," Dr. Wooten says. "As a surgeon, you break down a patient sort of like a stylist would break someone down in a dressing room. With style, the goal is to accentuate the positive qualities of an individual, and not to overpower it with one piece of clothing, and it's the same philosophy with surgery; to accentuate, not overpower."

Dr. Wooten bought this jacket at a boutique in Brazil, and loves the detailing on the sides. "I like Brazilian design," she says. "It doesn't have to be expensive, you just need to feel comfortable wearing it."
